

RTD services affected by snowy conditions

Riders should look to RTD channels for updates

DENVER (Nov. 26, 2019) - Snowy conditions across the Denver metro region are affecting the Regional Transportation District's (RTD) services.

As RTD continues to assess the situation, the transit agency encourages riders to plan ahead and expect delays during this morning's commute. RTD service will continue to be affected as the storm progresses. Bus schedules can be impacted by wet and icy roads as well as traffic delays. Trains are often delayed due to low visibility and slower speeds around stations and through crossings.

Rider information:

- Cancellations of train trips will be posted to the Rider Alert page.
- Riders can obtain the latest service updates via Twitter @RideRTD.
- Real time locations for light rail and buses is available on Next Ride.

ABOUT RTD

The Regional Transportation District celebrates 50 years of service this year. The transit agency develops, operates and maintains a public transportation system that meets the need of close to 3 million people within an eight-county service area in the Denver Metro region. The agency's buses, rail lines, shuttles and additional services provide 100 million annual passenger trips.
