

RTD holds virtual public meetings for proposed June service changes

DENVER (March 22, 2021) -- Regional Transportation District (RTD) customers will have the opportunity to provide feedback about RTD's proposed service changes that will go into effect in June. Virtual meetings will be held March 30-31.

This service change proposal includes a mix of service enhancements and adjustments that address connectivity, while maintaining the necessary resources to support social distancing on RTD vehicles. In addition to these service changes, RTD will continue to monitor routes and make ongoing adjustments to accommodate social distancing on busier routes. Customers must also continue to wear masks, which is a federal and state requirement.

These service adjustments proposed to the current COVID-19 service plan would be further modification to the initial COVID-19 service plan implemented April 19, 2020 and modified in January 2021. Many of the routes proposed for service improvements serve vulnerable communities that rely on transit. These customers often perform essential jobs and have continued to ride during the pandemic.
