

RTD to hold virtual public meetings for proposed September service changes June 28, July 1 and July 7

DENVER (June 24, 2021) – Regional Transportation District (RTD) customers will have the opportunity to provide feedback about RTD’s proposed service changes that will go into effect in September. Virtual meetings will be held June 28, July 1 and July 7.

This service change proposal will improve on-time performance, increase service reliability, and support modest increases in ridership. In addition to these service changes, RTD will continue to monitor routes and make ongoing adjustments to accommodate increased ridership as people return to their workplaces and schools. Customers must also continue to wear masks, which is a federal requirement, through Sept. 13, 2021.

The proposed changes will further modify the current COVID-19 service plan that has been in place since April 2020 and was adjusted in January 2021. Many of the routes proposed for service improvements serve vulnerable communities that rely on transit. These customers often perform essential jobs and have continued to ride during the pandemic.
