Connecting Downtown to Thornton and Beyond

The N Line adds even more commuter rail service to connect the metro Denver region. The first 13 miles of the proposed 18.5-mile line will provide service from Union Station through Denver, Commerce City, Northglenn, Thornton, and eventually North Adams County. Construction on the remaining 5.5 miles will begin in the future as funding becomes available.

At Union Station, passengers can connect to the C, E and W light rail lines, the University of Colorado A Line to the airport, the B Line to Westminster, the G Line to Arvada/Wheat Ridge, Local and Regional buses, the Free MallRide, and Free MetroRide.

N Line frequency

RTD reduced service on bus and rail across the District during COVID-19. This includes changing N Line service to 30-minute frequencies during all service hours. For more information on N Line service changes visit rtd-denver.com/service-changes.
